President Roosevelt passed through Andover, Tuesday morning on his private train en route for Lawrence, Haverhill and down East. While it was not generally known that the train with its distinguished passenger would go through Andover, there were some who learned of the fact from the Boston morning papers or who guessed that such might be the case so that there were perhaps 300 or so in the vicinity of the B. & N. depot when the special train came in at 10.05 slowing down almost to a standstill, in order that the people might get a good look at the President as he stood bowing and smiling on the rear platform, all alone. The opportunity to see the Nation's leader was much better at Andover than at Lawrence, but comparatively few knew of the intention to come through the centre of the town but rather expected that the train would go the Lowell and Lawrence branch.

BASEBALL

Ballardvale, 11; Crescents, 10.

Ballardvale defeated the Crescents of Andover last Saturday afternoon on the P. A. campus in a close and hard fought game by the score of 11 to 10.

This was the second game of the series, Ballardvale winning the first one by a score of 9 to 2.

For Ballardvale the features were the good work of the battery. The catching and throwing to bases by Bonner was very sharp and accurate. Cullinane and Bradley played fine games. The batting of Bradley and Platt was strong and timely. A sensational feature of the game was a steal home from third by O'Donnell, which tied the score in the eighth inning.

For the Crescents, Doyle pitched a fine game holding Ballardvale down to six hits. While their batting was hard their poor fielding cost them the game.

The contest closed with a fine double play by Bradley unassisted.

WELL KNOWN FENIAN DEAD.

James Cahill, a member of the famous band of Fenians for whose attack upon a prison coach and the shooting of Sergeant Brett, an English officer, at Manchester, England, in September 18, 1867, Allen Larkin, and O'Brien were hanged, died at 7:10 o'clock Sunday morning at his home, 13 Trenton street, this city. This band of Irish rebels numbered about 11, and now with the death of Mr. Cahill number of survivors is reduced to seven, some of whom are said to be still living in England, while others are in this country.

Mr. Cahill was born in Manchester, England, in April, 1841, and was consequently a few months over 61 years of age. His parents were of Irish birth, as were also their ancestors for several generations back. He was 26 years of age at the time of the famous murder of Sgt. Brett, and two months from that time, in November of '67, having been put into custody of other patriots, he made his escape from England and came to this country, where nearly all of his life had been spent in this city.

The deceased had been ailing since last Wednesday, but death came Sunday morning very suddenly and unexpectedly, after a final illness of about 20 minutes. The cause is attributed to pneumonia.

The funeral will take place from the Immaculate Conception church, tomorrow morning, and burial will be in the Immaculate Conception cemetery.

Mr. Cahill is survived by a widow, Mrs. Katherine Cahill, four sons, T. P., John and Daniel of this city, and James of Alaska; and three daughters, Mary of Boston, Nellie who is Mrs. John O'Reilly of New York, and Katherine of this city.

The deceased was a fireman and worked as such for about 15 years in the Pacific mills, and later as fireman at the Casto theatre on Lawrence street. He was employed by Frank J. Stanley painter, at the time he was taken ill.

When he came to this country shortly after the affair, he was received with great respect by the Fenians of New York. He came to Lawrence from New York, and has been prominent in Irish circles up to within a few years.

HISTORICAL ANDOVER

Lorraine in Andover

Mrs. Loring's friends in Andover wanted her to come back and she disposed of the small estate and belongings not needed on the journey, and leaving the husband's grave in New Orleans and the first babe, John, in Cincinnati, she hitched her horse to the emigrant wagon and started for Lake Erie, for during the six short years of their sojourn in Ohio, the Erie canal was opened. Thomas, who had learned to make saddle trees, Sally, an all round business woman, Mary Ann, now 13, the sunshine of the party, with John, aged two, came safely along over the long miles, camping by the way and faring better than when on the flat boat going down the Ohio, for this way led by cornfields, and plum trees, and hen coops, and milk pails. The journey by the canal is now familiar to all who read the juveniles of the day, and her experience was the same as all the others. At Albany, they came to the regular stage to Boston, and so on nearer and nearer the settled and long cultivated country of their childhood. Here for awhile it was open house and thanksgiving at Grandis Russell's, and Uncle Stephen Abbott's, and Uncle Ebenezer Lovejoy's. Then Sally Loring took her home life up in Abbott Village near her sister, Mrs. Thomas Smith, and the children began to fit themselves into the right places here. In those days Abbott Village was inhabited chiefly by Abbotts, all relatives of the mill people and everybody who had a small legacy added to the company stock and lent a hand. So Mary Ann elected to spin wool yarn, while Sally, a born trader, chose the Boston supply store of Uncle Lovejoy, and a good clerk she was on account of her Western training. Tom tried it down there awhile but said he preferred to make saddle trees which nobody East needed. Likewise the Boston girls all looked like "bags of augurs" when measured by a certain Ohio model the relatives began to hear about—I think her name was Hannah Smith. Tom went back, alas! to find Hannah had been taken, but Keziah Murray was left and a faithful helpmeet she proved during the long years. Three times did the loving sister, Mary Ann, take the long journey by stage and canal to Tom's house in Steubenville at first. Finally the war came and she never saw him again. His only son, John Loring, enlisted and died of starvation at Andersonville and the grandson John, the three girls and the aged widow took a soldier homestead claim and moved North West, where we lose them until the Loring genealogy restores the tale.

Rev. Bailey Loring's Sarah had long been dead when in 1868, Sarah Russell laid herself to rest on the hillside here, but the hearts are not so widely severed as those lonesome graves now. A Haverhill woman, in bathing at Salisbury beach, Sunday suddenly collapsed and was with difficulty rescued. The Lynn Central Labor union has voted not to accept the appropriation of the city, but pay its own expenses Labor day.

Sarah Ackerly of Haverhill has been remembered to the extent of $10,000 in the will of Dolbeer of San Francisco, a millionaire.

Thomas Harold of Lynn drank corrosive sublimate and died Saturday. He left a wife and four children in destitute circumstances.

The Misses Lizzie and Jennie Cogswell of Haverhill were affected by lightning at their home in Haverhill early Sunday morning, the bolt passing through the house.

Horace H. Jones, fireman on the early morning train from Boston to Rockport, was struck by an overhead bridge at Manchester and received painful injuries to his scalp.

George W. Gilmore of West Lynn has brought action against the West Lynn Wheelmen's club for loss of goods occasioned by a faucet left running, overflowing the sink.

Two women and two little girls were thrown out of a carriage at Gloucester Friday, the horse being scared by an automobile. The chauffeur did not stop to see what damage he had caused.

Inspector Colby and Officer Burkes of Lynn are having a high old time in Toronto, Can., while awaiting the result of the extradition proceedings, now pending, for the return of George W. Clark to Massachusetts, as a fugitive from justice.

Norris E. Farren, residing at 6 Church street, Salem, has been missing from home since a week ago yesterday. The police have been notified and asked to assist in locating him. He leaves a wife and two children. Armenians had threatened him.

The shoe factory building and some $7500 worth of lumber, the property of the Boston & Maine road, were destroyed by fire at Rockport, Monday evening making a big blaze, which was plainly visible in Salem.

James Fee, a laborer at the River electric works, Lynn, was electrocuted Tuesday morning. He was shoveling sand on the wharf, slipped and grasped the wire to save himself. He received 500 volts, and despite medical attendance died within a short time.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED. At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician, of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady of sixteen years, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet, and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by all druggists.

of the late Amos Barker of Tyngsboro still bears the name of Loring among us and is devoted to the care of her aged mother, with a watchful eye on her aged sister-in-law across the doorway who is planning to walk at 89 to the house where her father went to his first party in Andover.

Here at these two cozy corners the latch string is always out, there is a bit of bright flower blooming somewhere and one always goes away restored to balance by the wholesome atmosphere emanating from the Barker and Loring ancestors, very likely unconscious of their radiating influence. Perhaps we would all be a little stronger if we saw our old people oftener and kept these home links unbroken.

C. H. A.

Letter to J. E. Pitman.

Andover, Mass.

Dear Sir: No man is more interested in the look and wear of the paint on the houses you build than you; not even the owner; not even the painter.

And some painters sometimes are suspected of being more concerned for the looks than the wear. What is your opinion? Which pays best, for a painter to have his paint last three years, or as long as he can? He can have it last six years if he wants to.

Lead and oil lasts three; Devco lead and zinc lasts six. Of course, conditions affect the time of both.

Most painters know that zinc toughens the lead; some use it.

Devco lead and zinc is thoroughly ground in oil; the proportions are right, and the mixture is thorough.

No painter need mix; he can't afford to. Hand work can't compete with machine work. He runs no risk with Devco lead and zinc.

All interests lie in using it: yours, the owner's, the painter's—unless he wants his paint to wear half as long.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVCO & CO.

P. S. E. M. & W. A. Allen sell our paint.

PILLSBURY BEATEN.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Aug. 25.—The naval search problem on the New England coast was terminated at 5:40 Sunday morning, the signal "Surrender" demand unconditional, from Rear Admiral Higginson's flagship, and the reply, "Accept surrender," from the fore-truck of the Prairie, Commander Pillsbury's flagship.

The battle between the blue, or defending squadron, and the white or attacking squadron, was thus quickly ended eight miles south of Thatcher's Island. The enemy had most signally failed to make harbor, having for its objective point Salem. A preponderance of fighting strength, relatively few points, represented by the battleships Kearsarge, Alabama and Massachusetts, Scorpion and torpedo boat, had overwhelmed the forty-five points, represented by the auxiliary cruisers Prairie and Supply. To speak from a theoretic standpoint the white squadron was entirely destroyed by the guns of the defending battleships. Thus on the fourth night the game of naval strategy was brought to an end, it having covered a period of unending toil, sleepless nights and anxious and wearing vigil, and of grave uncertainty to its participants.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwater, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbors was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used, according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous healthy child. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in a single instance." For sale by all druggists.

RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED.

The resignation of Joseph Shattuck, Jr., as treasurer of the Essex Savings bank of this city, was accepted Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the trustees of the institution which was held at the bank rooms. With the exception of the Hon. C. U. Bell and R. J. Macartney, all of the trustees were present.

The resignation, at the request of Mr. Shattuck, is to take effect on the 15th of September; and as a committee to consider applicants and recommend a successor to Mr. Shattuck, this committee was named: Samuel White, George E. Kunhardt, and Walter E. Parker.

At a recent meeting of the trustees of the Institute for Savings at Springfield, Mr. Shattuck was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former treasurer. Mr. Shattuck has accepted the honor and will enter upon his new duties soon after his resignation from the local institution.

He now resides on Campo Saco street, Springfield, and will shortly move to a new home on the corner of Main and Springfield where he will take up his residence. Mr. Shattuck is at present enjoying a ten days' vacation with his wife in Maine. They left this city yesterday afternoon.

AT CANOBIE LAKE PARK.

One of the pleasantest recollections which the city government of 1902, and their friends will have to remember will be Monday's formal opening of the scenic, picturesque and beautiful new Canobie Lake park which has resulted from the enterprise of the Lawrence & Methuen Street Railway company. The party from this city numbering from 200 to 250, were the guests of the company for the afternoon and evening, and the entertainment which they received at the hands of the generous management will long be remembered.

Although there was some little delay in getting started, this was overlooked for the road has only just been opened, and as yet is not in full running gear, but even had the party felt a little uneasy about the delay, all would have soon forgotten it upon arrival at the park. About 3 o'clock the party left the terminus at the corner of Hampshire and Essex street, and after a delightful ride through Methuen and Salem, over the country roads and over private ground, through dense woods and past smiling open fields, all the time getting the benefit of the fresh, invigorating air of the country, the Lawrence guests arrived at the park in due time. The sight which first met their gaze at once captivated them, and there were heard on all sides exclamations of surprise, pleasure and satisfaction.

The beautifully laid out park and its many elaborate buildings have already been described at considerable length in the columns of the Telegram, so needs no repetition here.

The party was first shown to seats in the theatre and all enjoyed the fine vaudeville show, the first to be presented at the park. This part of the entertainment over, the guests were escorted to the dining hall which overlooks the lake, but as charming as was the vista outside, there were many more things on the long, daintily arranged tables which just at that time looked more inviting to the visitors. Then followed a most elaborate lunch of croquettes and green peas, salads, sandwiches, rolls, coffee and ices and cakes. Punch was also served and cigars were lighted. The spread was an excellent one and by the time the guests were ready to listen to a little speechmaking they were telling each other that there never before was so hospitable a company as the Lawrence & Methuen St., Ry. Co.

Director J. A. Brogan, who had extended the invitations in behalf of the management, stepped forward, then after briefly welcoming the guests, he presented His Honor, Mayor James F. Leonard. The mayor said that he felt that the franchise had been granted to the right party and that he was sure there would never be any regrets for the action of the board of aldermen. He referred to the beautiful and attractive summer resort which had been created and which would be a retreat for the people of this city in the hot, sultry days.

All of the speakers were cheered and warmly applauded, and on several occasions three rousing cheers and a tiger were given for the road and the management.

The Hon. Edward F. O'Sullivan next delighted the gathering with his eloquence in which he paid a glowing tribute to his friend of the boyhood days, James Brogan. The soft light of sunset was by this time, flooding the pretty dining hall and it lent more charm to the words of the speaker who beautifully pictured the hills and scenery about the lake. He said that instead of developing along the Merrimack river, this company had reached out farther so that the people of Lawrence and southern Massachusetts could now touch elbows with the people of the sister state of New Hampshire. He spoke of the vista as "the eternal hills of God, the glorious sunset, and the God-given beauties of nature." Mr. O'Sullivan referred strongly to the smooth running cars, the fine road-bed, and the entire up-to-date nature of the road. "The Government of Lawrence," he said, "can never regret the day that this road became an existent fact."

Other speakers who were Granville E. Foss of Methuen, the Hon. James R. Simpson, Franklin Woodman, James Ayer of Salem, and John A. Finner of Methuen, Selectman George Marsh of Methuen, Frank M. Blaisdale who laid out the park, Howard Abel president of the Company, Selectman Benjamin R. Wheeler of Salem, N. H., John H. Spinney, Joseph A. McCarthy, and Dennis H. Finn. All were warmly received and their remarks were heartily applauded.

Two pleasing features of the little after-lunch entertainment were songs by Will Lane and whistling solos by the band.

Among those who went to the park as guests of the road, were: His Honor Mayor James F. Leonard, Hon. James R. Simpson, City Clerk C. J. Corcoran, Superintendent E. G. Dick of the public property department, the Hon. Edward F. O'Sullivan, Aldermen Richard Parthum, William P. White, Eli Lacaille, and Harry B. Lane; Councilmen R. P. Koenig, W. W. Hagar, W. C. The Fruit of It.

The town meeting on Monday night was an interesting one. It was not altogether profitable, and was far from creditable to some of the participants in it, but the result to come out of it will undoubtedly be of value in hereafter keeping down excessive extravagances, and in making public officials more watchful of their haphazard approving of indiscriminate bills.

From street rumor and excited oration the general public had been led to believe that very great extravagances had been committed in handling the smallpox cases, and the reading of the bills was supposed to show them up. That there were extravagances was very apparent, but that some of the statements were more extravagant than the expenditures was also very apparent. Perhaps the censure of the Board of Health was partially deserved, but it must not be overlooked that the planning of things as they ought to have been is much easier than planning them as they ought to be. Smallpox is an expensive sore for a community to care for, as shown all along the line, cities and towns all over the state are finding that it costs nearly the average of $400 a patient to care for it, and Andover's expense varies little from this amount.

The big charges are arbitrary. They include absolute isolation for every person infected or exposed, and the best of nursing and food. Few physicians are willing to give up regular practice to care for smallpox alone, and even fewer citizens would be willing to consult the physician who had the care of the loathsome disease. This condition makes the charge for medical attendance necessarily high and a large part of the total cost.

We refer to these phases of the question in simple justice. They make up a side of the case not brought out at last Monday's meeting, and which the public ought to consider. In the light of all that, however, there were several features of the way in which the work was handled that can and most surely will be improved upon in future work, and to the agitation of the past two weeks such improvement will be largely due.

As we have repeatedly urged, there is no worse miscarriage of the true aim of the New England town meeting than a motion to "indefinitely postpone" an article before it has been properly explained. The motion is often made with the best of motive but it is never a safe solution of a subject which has been deemed worthy of a place in the warrant. The adjustment of the high-way money was an important matter for last Monday's meeting. Until it was explained, it was probably the sentiment of nine-tenths of the gathering that enough money had already been spent upon highways for this year. But the explanation put a very different face upon things, and the meeting was unanimous in approval. There has been little reason discovered, even in these strenuous times, for changing that very excellent and old fashioned motto—"be sure you are right and then go ahead."

There was considerable disappointment felt in town that it had not been known that the President was to go through Andover on his New England trip last Tuesday. The news did not arrive until Tuesday morning and only a few, comparatively, of the population heard of it. The employees of Smith & Dove Mfg. Co. were among the favored ones, the mill being shut down for a brief space. The train almost stopped in the station and the President waved his acknowledgment of the public greeting from the rear platform. Time was when the important place for presidents to stop was old Andover and we are inclined to think that had Pres. Roosevelt made Andover one of his stopping places we might have shown him something that few cities or towns could produce, the house where the Nation's first president breakfasted when he made a similar journey more than a century ago.

Three more days of official vacation, and September will be here. But the coming of September this year promises to usher in the best weather of the summer for vacations, so that if anybody stays over his time he ought to be forgiven. The month will probably be a great trolley month for Andover with the new line to Salem to enjoy.

The Main street is partially finished and Supt. Lovejoy promises that it will be all ready for travel its entire length by Saturday night. It is a mighty good job and has been put through very expeditiously.

FAMILY REUNION

Poor-Poore-Little Association Met At Newburyport on Wednesday.

Many members of the Poor-Poore-Little Family association, who reside in this vicinity, attended the eighth triennial reunion of the association at the Pleasant street church, Newburyport, Wednesday.

J. M. Poor of Haverhill, president of the association, presided, and the exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. William G. Poor of Lowell. The family motto song was sung under the direction of Fred H. Poor of Manchester, N. H., and then followed an introductory address by the president, and an address of welcome by Henry Bailey Little of this city.

An interesting diversion from the ordinary character of such gatherings was a debate on "Woman Suffrage," Miss Janette W. Pike of Wamssett for the affirmative, and Mrs. Ida Poor Murphy of Georgetown in the negative. Resolutions on the death of Joseph G. H. Little, Daniel J. Poor and Albert Poor, presented by the assistant secretary, Abbott A. Poor of Lawrence were adopted.

The address made by Abbott Poor of this city in presenting the resolutions, followed.

"When we were fraternally gathered at Andover in 1899, who thought that six short years should have flown, three members of our Executive Committee would have passed from our earthly vision to their heavenly reward? But such, in the providence of God, is the sad fact. Yet with the morn those angel faces smile, which we have loved long since and loved awhile."

"Joseph G. S. Little, of Haverhill, was chosen upon the Executive Committee as a representative of the Little branch of our family, and, while Mr. Little had not attended any of our family reunions and thus many had not the privilege of meeting and knowing him, yet those of us who had gathered with him in the councils of the Committee found in him devoted lover of the Association, having its highest welfare at heart. The deep interest which he took in the organization was evidence that had he been spared to us he would have done much to unite into one family the descendants of Alice Poor Little with those of her brothers John, Samuel and Daniel."

"To two of our departed ones we owe much of what we are as a family association. Who can measure their service or attempt to eulogize Daniel J. Poor of Merrimack, or Albert Poor of Andover. Both were present at the meeting held in Boston, Nov. 6, 1880, at which our family association had its birth, and from that day to the hour of their death they labored in its behalf, while we ever looked up to them for advice and counsel, and devotedly followed them as our accepted leaders. At our triennial by deed and spoken word they took full and active part. Theirs the word of welcome, theirs the hand to guide."

"To Daniel J. Poor as presiding officer at Andover, much of the success of that gathering is due. With justifiable pride as kin we do well to mingle our encomiums with those of friend and neighbor. At the age of fifty-five, chief among the years of his manhood were spent, a leader in his business, social and religious life, we had scarce ceased to congratulate him upon his appointment to the presidency of the Merrimack National Bank, which institution he had so faithfully served in many capacities, when the summons came."

"Time would not permit me to equal to the task to enumerate what Albert Poor did in our behalf. I only pause to contemplate one phase of his work and to ask what any of our triennials would have been without those masterly addresses; orations truly which he delivered on those occasions. Those paintings in words which gave us such a true and vivid insight into our family history, of the lives and deeds of the men and women who were our ancestors, and of whom we are justly proud. Often commencing his address with an account of the early beginnings and closing with words of prophecy, they were to us a Genesis and a Revelation. In them he still lives, and we do well if, from time to time, we turn to them for knowledge and inspiration."

"Dying at forty-seven he had in his comparative short span of life, proved himself skillful in his chosen profession of the law, able as a legislator creditably serving his native town of Andover as its member in the General Court. Gifted with true eloquence, how proud we all were of him, when in the full vigor of manhood, surrounded not alone by the wise and learned of classic Andover, but also by many of the leaders and master minds of our beloved community. He delivered his masterly piece, the oration of the 25th anniversary of the settlement of Andover."

"And now, in consideration of what these men were, and still are to us, I offer the following:

Resolved
Whereas, a kind but inscrutable Providence has taken from our beloved ones, Albert Poor, Daniel J. Poor, and Joseph G. S. Little, members of our association and of its executive committee, it is proper that we, their kin and associates, who have loved and honored them, should give testimony of their work and expression of grief at our loss, therefore be it

Resolved
That in the death of these, our brethren, there have gone from our midst those who were early interested in the establishment of our family association, and who have, through the years unselfishly labored for its maintenance and up-building, and while we mourn with those who mourn, yet let us rejoice that we have known them, while their lives and example are our incentive to higher service, both to our association and to the world.

Resolved
That we extend our sympathies to the immediate families, to those who were bound by the deepest and strongest ties to Albert Poor, Daniel J. Poor, and Joseph G. S. Little.

Resolved
That these resolutions be engrossed upon the records of the Poor-Poore-Little family association, and a copy transmitted to each family of the deceased.

Among those present were the following from this vicinity: Isaac A. Poor, Elizabeth P. Poor, Elizabeth E. Poor, Gates M. Poor, Abbott A. Poor, Edward P. Poor, Mrs. Edward P. Poor, Lawrence J. Poor, James C. Poor, Mrs. James Poor, North Andover; Mrs. Gertrude M. Cross, Methuen.

The Board of Public Works has finished the work of extending the water pipes from Haggatt's pond to Ballardvale and from Salem street to the reservoir, thereby completing the circuit so that the water may now run entirely around, making the chances for a complete shut-off of any part of the town practically impossible. At present the employees of the board are at work on Haverhill street, Frye Village, making a short extension and later will make an extension on River street, Ballardvale.

ALUMNI FUND

Plea for Money to Enlarge Field of Instruction at Seminary.

The Congregationalist of recent date had the following plea from the Committee of Alumni of the Andover Theological Seminary appointed last June for the purposes set forth in the article:

The committee of the alumni of Andover Theological Seminary wish to urge upon their fellow-graduates the duty of commending the seminary to the confidence of the churches and especially to the consideration of young men who intend to enter the ministry. Now that it is definitely decided that the seminary is to continue its work upon its historic site, its various attractions ought to be brought to the full notice of the Christian public. Its full equipment of buildings, its extraordinary rich theological library, the number and variety of communities accessible to the students for Christian work and sociological investigation are all advantages in which it is not excelled by any other seminary. While in close touch with the thought and activities of the modern world, Andover also affords sufficient retirement for study and meditation essential for one preparing himself for the prophetic office. The faculty includes honored instructors, who enjoy the affection of successive generations of students, and more recent appointees who are commending themselves both by their scholarship and by their practical methods. Plans are contemplated for the coming year which will secure courses of lectures and single addresses by leading representatives of our colleges and by men who are prominently successful in the pastorate. The present indications are that the attendance will be somewhat in advance of that of last year. There is thus encouragement to believe that the oldest of our theological seminaries is destined to enjoy again her rightful prestige.

Several of the graduates expressed their desire at the last commencement to contribute to some fund that should help enlarge the field of instruction in the Seminary. The suggestion has since been repeated from various sources, and we now invite contributions to an Alumni Fund.

The object of this fund shall be to furnish a foundation for yearly lectures by persons of distinguished ability in such department as shall best supplement other work of the seminary, and to make immediate provision for such a course during the current year. The alumni will in this way help the faculty and the trustees to emphasize the fact that the seminary is now entered upon a new epoch with larger and more diversified effectiveness than ever.

We are aware that most of the graduates will be obliged to contribute from very limited resources, but we are confident that their loyalty will prompt a generous response. Several have already expressed their intention of giving $100 or $50 apiece. Many will be unable to give such sums, but it is desired that as many as possible have part in this movement, and contributions of any size will be welcome. The graduates may well remember that beyond their worth financially, their gifts will have a distinct value as expressions of their affection and hope for the institution. Some who cannot contribute from their own means may be able to secure gifts from parishioners or other friends of Christian learning.

Contributions may be sent to the chairman of the committee,

STILL GROWING

The Smith & Dove Mills Find Another Enlargement of Plant Necessary.

The Smith & Dove Mfg. Co., has again found it necessary to make some enlargements on their already extensive plant at Abbott Village.

Their Flax Preparing department has been taxed to its utmost during the last year in an endeavor to keep up with the increase in spinning and twisting machinery added in the last few years. They have recently ordered from Messrs. Fairbairn of Leeds, England, another system of line preparing, similar to one installed a year ago. In order to provide room for this machinery, it has been found necessary to raise the roof of the present batch house, adding another story 100 ft. x 40 ft., connecting at either end with the present preparing room in the main mill by covered bridges. This floor besides accommodating the preparing machinery will allow of a substantial increase in the future.

The constantly increasing load on the 600 horse power engines has necessitated an increase in the boiler plant, and an addition to the boiler house to hold two additional boilers is to be built. Only one of the boilers is to be put in at the present time.

W. N. Pike of Lawrence has been awarded the contract for the buildings, plans of which are from the office of Dean & Main of Boston, who have had charge of all the company's work for some years. The work is already begun, and will probably be completed inside of two months.

Election Day Law.

According to a provision of the new law passed by the legislature no store, shop or factory in Andover can lawfully carry on business for two hours after the polls have been opened on election day.

The polls usually open in Andover at 6:30 a. m. and in that case all work must be suspended as far as employees are concerned until 8:30 o'clock except in special cases for which the act provides as follows:

No person entitled to vote at an election shall upon the day of any such election, be employed in any manufacturing, mercantile or other establishment except such as may lawfully conduct its business on Sunday, during the period of two hours after the opening of the polls in the voting precinct or town in which he is entitled to vote.

Thus it will be seen that all places of business, excepting bakeries, drug stores, news stands and the like must be closed two hours next election day.

Initial Trip.

The new line of the Boston & Northern street railway, between Lawrence and Salem will be in operation for regular traffic tomorrow.

The line has been completed with the exception of laying the rails across the Shawheen bridge, a matter which cannot be accomplished until a new bridge is built or the present one strengthened. The work of making the present structure substantial will be a matter of only a few days.

The initial trip over the new road was made today at 12 o'clock when the Home club of Lawrence, took the trip as the guests of the Boston & Northern.

The opening of the road to the public comes tomorrow, the first regular trip being at 7:15 o'clock from the Lawrence transfer station. The first trip from the Salem end will start at 9:15.

The trip will be one of the fastest to be had on electric lines in this vicinity.

On stretches through the country districts almost steam railroad time will be made. The ride will be a beautiful and exhilarating one and the fare is but 20 cents.

Preliminary measurements for the new bridge structure were made yesterday and work in that direction will be begun at once.

Why Not?

The enclosed clipping is from the Boston Journal.

A superior quality of peat is now being dug from the meadow land on the north side of Albion street, near the Boston & Maine railroad in Melrose Highlands, a few miles from Boston. This meadow appears to be the bottom of a lake that has been drained continuously for hundreds of years. The layers of peat are from 10 to 16 feet thick and will produce many thousands of cords of fuel, at small expense of drying. Who owns the West Andover peat meadows and why cannot they furnish the citizens of this town with cheap fuel?

SPECIAL MEETING.

Small Pox Bills Get Andover Citizens Excited—Money Finally Appropriated.

The citizens of Andover assembled in Pynchard hall last Monday evening at the call of the town warrant issued by the selectmen for a special town meeting to consider the question of appropriating the sum of $5000 to defray the expense of the smallpox cases in town. One other article on the warrant was to see if the town would vote to appropriate an additional sum for repairs on highways and the last article was to transact any other business that might legally come before the meeting.

Pynchard hall was used owing to the fact that repairs on the town house are as yet not completed. Nearly every seat in the hall was occupied and many were compelled to stand. In all, about 300 were present.

At 7.30, Town Clerk Marland read the warrant and announced the first article, choice of moderator and George H. Poor was chosen. Occupying seats on the platform were Selectmen Smith, Boutwell and Bailey. The moderator asked if anyone would make a motion in regard to Article 2 relating to the appropriation of $5000 so that the matter might be open for discussion and Peter D. Smith moved that the sum be appropriated. Barnett Rogers seconded.

Peter D. Smith then said he would like to inquire why the matter of appropriating money had come before the town; and why the money was not paid without a special meeting.

Town Treasurer Parker explained. He said the first large bills for the smallpox amounted to about $2000. These after consultation with the town counsel, Mr. Knox, it was decided to pay, making an overdraft therefor. The next bills amounted to over $1800 and he said he did not feel like paying those and make the overdraft so large. Mr. Knox, who was again asked for advice, said that the bills had better not be paid until a special town meeting had been called to appropriate a sum sufficient to pay the amount due.

John L. Smith wished to know if the bills were all honest.

Chairman Smith of the Board of Selectmen stated that all the bills had come through the Board of Health all itemized and might be seen by anyone desiring to do so.

Barnett Rogers query "Can the bills be read?" was followed by cries of "Hear! Hear!" and Rev. Varnum Lincoln moved that the bills be read, item by item, and the motion prevailed by a unanimous vote.

The June bills were first taken up and Town Clerk Marland proceeded to read them. The bills were very interesting as demonstrating what it is necessary to some patients to have in the case of smallpox and the citizens followed their reading with close attention. Rev. Varnum Lincoln had his suspicions aroused once when the worthy town clerk read off one item as a "bottle of something or other" but was much relieved to find that it was a "box of crackers" after all.

About $200 or more was shown to have been paid out or due for watchers, several hundred dollars for nursing, something over one hundred and a quarter for extra police duty, about sixteen or seventeen hundred for doctors' services, including vaccinations, and much for groceries, provisions, clothing and supplies of all kinds.

Some of the items and prices amused many in the audience who could not understand why the article was required or why such and such a thing had been purchased at such and such a place. Just a few of the items may not be out of place here: Plain cake .50; bread .12; lemon pie .30; cornets 1.00; strawberries, moccie, pickles, tub, pail, candlestick, breakfast cocoa, gallon jug, cakes, etc. The nurses got $3 a week for their services while Dr. Magee was paid $20 a day up to the 1st of July and after that $15 per day. Agent Smith of the Board of Health was paid $200 for his services and George Hadfield for fumigating got $100.

After the June bills were read the totals were given somewhat as follows:

Aggregate for June 203.20
Aggregate for July 2094.81
Not paid but approved 1811.00
City of Somerville bill 498.00
Making a total of over $4000.

There are still some bills to come in which will make the total approach the $5000 mark. Out of this, however, the state will have to pay something for the care of Frank Bowley, Andover's only victim.

The moderator held up a big bundle of bills and wanted to know if it was desired that the rest of the items be read.

William A. Allen of E. M. & W. A. Allen asked that a few of the drug bill be read.

Charles W. Clark asked for a reading of the law in regard to the quarantining of smallpox patients.

George Piddington remarked that he thought some of the items procured for the patients very unnecessary.

Warren F. Draper thought the small items rather unimportant but said he would like to have explained some of the stories which have been circulated about town. For instance, he understood that one doctor had gone to a house in which there was smallpox and that an inmate of the house had come to the door step to be vaccinated for which this doctor had charged $25.

Dr. Leitch explained that Dr. Conroy got $5 for vaccinating one of a family of which he was the physician in such a manner but he was exposed to more or less risk and the trouble of fumigating so that the bill was really reasonable.

The moderator read off some of the druggists' items by which it was shown that John J. Forrest of Lawrence had a bill of $126 against the town for an article which could have been purchased equally as well in the local stores. William A. Allen complained because the druggists had been passed by in that fashion and said it was not a fair treatment of the Andover business men. He also said he asked for a reading of the druggists' items because he had understood that some of the patients had had champagne.

Dr. Magee said that this was not so. "Well, there was some rum, wasn't there?" queried Rev. Varnum Lincoln. "Yes, there was some rum," responded the doctor.

Francis Holt was curious to know about the Agent of the Board of Health. Mr. Allen asked if patients hadn't been kept in quarantine 20 days after the danger was over and Dr. Magee allowed by the Board of Health to visit them every day at $20 per day making the bill much larger than necessary.

Dr. Leitch explained that Dr. Magee got only $15 per diem after July 1st. William Shaw did not agree with Mr. Draper in thinking the small items unimportant. He thought some of them very peculiar to say the least.

"We are establishing a precedent here tonight," he said, "and if we vote to pay all these bills we'll get more like them. If they are right it is all right, but I can't believe they are right. It looks as if someone were trying to bunco the town. When persons cannot pay the bills necessarily contracted during a smallpox epidemic it is right for the individual can do it he should be made to."

He could not see the use of supplying corsets, candle sticks, kitchen utensils, etc., in the cure of smallpox. He declared that the board of health had either been remiss in its duties or someone had taken advantage of the board. He said that he considered some of the bills unreasonable ones and as the law requires that only reasonable bills contracted in such cases should be paid he did not see the necessity of the town paying for many of the articles purchased according to the bills.

Charles W. Clark said that was just the point he had been trying to make by calling for a reading of the law governing the matter.

It was stated by John S. Stark that Agent Hinchcliffe of the State Board of Charity was present and if so inclined could tell the citizens a good deal in regard to the bills which were right and those which were not.

But Mr. Hinchcliffe was disinclined to make any statements saying that the Bowley case was one that the board of which he was a member would have to consider and therefore he did not think best to say much about it.

Dr. Abbott, in replying to Mr. Shaw's statement that some of the articles purchased were unnecessary said that the interests of the public have to be safeguarded and the patients also have a right to be protected so that many articles of wearing apparel have to be destroyed. There are many people who would find fault, and rightfully, if this germ-infected clothing should be worn out on the street and some of them are finding fault because they have been destroyed.

According to M. F. D'Arcy the only question to be settled was as to whether $5000 was to be appropriated or whether $4000 or $4200 wouldn't be enough.

Mr. Shaw said he would like to ask Mr. Hinchcliffe a question through the moderator. He desired to know whether it was customary for towns to pay such bills.

Mr. Hinchcliffe said he "would say this much. That anything relating to the quarantining of the Bowley family on Main street will not be paid by the state." He also stated that the doctor's bill at $20 a day could not be paid and also that all the expenses relating to that family are not considered a proper expense by the board as two of the girls were working.

Mr. Shaw said that Mr. D'Arcy's remarks were fine but that it was not possible to treat the matter in that cavalier fashion. If the patient's family was too poor to pay the expenses connected with smallpox, why then the town might well pay but he didn't think the town should be called upon to pay for some articles such as candlesticks and kitchen utensils which could easily be cleaned. He understood that one of the gentlemen whose house had been quarantined had prevented a bill to the town of $225 for loss of business.

Dr. Abbott said he did not know of such a bill.

A statement was made by Dr. Magee to the effect that much clothing has to be destroyed and even more is destroyed in Lawrence than was in Andover. Dr. Morse of the State Board of Health and the other doctors were very particular about this destruction of clothing. "Your board has worked wonders" he said, "and there is not a town in the Commonwealth today who got out of eleven cases of smallpox as cheaply as you have. There was a regular nest of it here."

Mr. Shaw inquired if the articles of wearing apparel have been purchased to take the place of clothing destroyed.

"They have," replied Dr. Magee.

Peter D. Smith wanted to know if $5000 would cover all the expenses.

Town Treasurer Parker said he thought so.

Mr. Smith then said that he had learned from one of the auditors that at a recent meeting of the board a bill had been presented for $200 by one of the persons whose house had been quarantined.

George A. Higgins stated that such was the case.

Dr. Abbott remarked that only bills approved by Dr. Magee and Agent Smith were passed by the Board of Health.

Dr. Magee explained the bill by saying that the Welch children had been lying around on plush chairs and sofas so that it was deemed advisable to destroy the furniture to safeguard the public and it was for this that Mr. Welch asked for $200 which would not nearly reimburse him.

Mr. Shaw said that he still maintained that the town was not called upon to pay unreasonable bills as well as reasonable.

Dr. C. W. Scott of 87 South Main street, agreed with Mr. Shaw. He desired to know how long the quarantine was maintained on the last patient.

The moderator said: "Perhaps the board of health —"

"I don't believe the Board of Health can answer anything," interrupted Dr. Scott.

Dr. Magee said that Mrs. John Collins was the last patient and that she had been under quarantine about six weeks. Then followed a passage-at-arms between Drs. Scott and Magee in regard to how long quarantine should be maintained and when danger was over, Scott intimating that the town physicians should have cared for the cases.

Dr. Leitch said he didn't think the

New Athletes For Andover.

Phillips Andover academy will be strengthened in athletics this fall by two of the best young athletes in all New England.

John Guiney of the Cambridge Y. M. C. A., who has a national reputation both as a gymnast and a shot-putter, and W. A. McVickar, the 10-mile amateur champion of New England, will soon leave for Andover to compete for honors on field and track.

Guiney has hurled the 12-pound shot 48 feet 2 inches, and has also put the 16-pound shot more than 40 feet. He broke the New England Y. M. C. A. record for the 16-pound shot at the meet held in Cambridge May 30. Since the Andover record for this event is 40 feet 8 inches Guiney is expected to break that at the first opportunity.

Though only 19 years old, Guiney ranks as one of the best gymnasts in the country. During the past three years he has won the all-round championship in this specialty at the Cambridge meets, and holds the national Y. M. C. A. record for pull-ups and dips, the figure for the former being 44 and for the latter 48.

He was captain of the basketball team that won the local Y. M. C. A. championship last year, and also played on the checker team that won the championship by defeating Harvard. He is also a clever bowler, his team this year breaking all records in the Y. M. C. A. candlepin tournament.

In the meets about Boston Guiney is always a scratch man, but won eight firsts last year. Out of the 16 events he entered he won 15 prizes.

Because of advice received from Harvard's coach, John Graham, he stopped training about a month ago, the coach thinking that the constant preparation for field days had resulted in getting him down too fine. Graham says that he will develop into one of the best shot-putters in the country when he is older, and hopes to see him on Harvard's track team when he finishes his course at Andover.

William H. McVickar of Dorchester is one of the best known runners in the vicinity of Boston. He jumped into prominence last Thanksgiving day, when he won the 10-mile championship of New England. Among the fast field of 17 starters were Bart Sullivan, Eddie Mills of Harvard and Frank Lynch, who defeated the Canadian runner Caffery in an eight-mile cross-country on April 12.

In his running career he has participated in 25 big contests, and only twice has he failed to qualify for a place. His ability is so well recognized that in all of his races he has run from scratch or has been handicapped very low.

McVickar's forte is long-distance running, but he has won several mile and half-mile races indoors and out, and even at those distances he probably can defeat any of the rivals he will meet in the academic ranks.

"TREASURED MEMORIES."

The sentiment in the painting in colors to be given away with next Sunday's Boston Sunday Journal will appeal with special force to thousands of New England people.

True to its title of "Treasured Memories," it depicts an aged mother honoring the memory of a son fallen on a Southern battle-field by bringing out his rusty sabre and well worn uniform to place them in the chair he used to sit in as a boy, while she re-reads the letters whose contents she knows already by heart.

The picture tells its story simply and directly, and at the same time it possesses artistic qualities of a high order. Edges S. Cameron, the artist, is one of the most prominent painters of figure compositions in the West.

PRESIDENT'S VISIT

Lawrence and vicinity greet the Nation's Leader Most Cordially.

Amid the booming of cannon and the bright martial music of the Lawrence Brass band, the train bearing President Theodore Roosevelt, chief executive of the nation, and his distinguished party, en route to Maine, rolled into the south station at 10:15 o'clock Tuesday morning right on scheduled time. It was a mighty throng of people that met their president at the station and cheered him till their voices were hoarse. There were young and old, and people of all classes, and it is estimated that the crowd which was packed into the streets and fields about the station numbered at high as 20,000. The entire complement of Battery C, under Captain Charles F. Sargent, had been drawn up in the Kimball field on the further side of the tracks immediately upon the arrival of the marching body at the south station, and the band had taken up its position on the roof over the walk of the railroad station. As 10:15 o'clock drew near the crowd began to get a little impatient, but they were shortly relieved when at 10:14 the four cannons of the battery began to belch forth their salute to the nation's chief executive.

THE TRAIN ARRIVES.

"Here he is," cried everybody, and cheers went up, drowning the band which by this time had everyone of its men blowing just as hard as they could. In another minute, the firing of the salute was suspended, and as the train came to a stop President Roosevelt could be seen through a window of the last car. He was dressed in a simple and ordinary manner, wearing steel grey trousers, and a plain black claw-hammer coat. He stood erect, and in his left hand held his tall hat. He looked straight out through the rear door, and with not the shade of a smile on his strong face, he awaited the entrance of Mayor Leonard.

Just before the train pulled in, Mayor Leonard, the Hon. Byron Truell and Dr. M. A. Dignam had taken up their positions on the platform, ready to immediately enter the train, that not the slightest moment might be lost in getting the distinguished party to the platform and presenting the President to the people.

When the train stopped, Congressman William S. Knox was standing on the rear platform. He quickly alighted from the car, beckoned to the mayor and his companions, and the small reception committee to enter the car. Mayor Leonard was at once presented to the chief executive, and through the window President Roosevelt could be seen looking his honor straight in the eye and giving him one of his characteristic firm and hearty hand-shakes.

PRESIDENT LEAVES THE TRAIN.

In another moment the party had alighted from the train and thousands of throats shouted and cheered as the President was escorted to the platform. The old grey-haired veterans of the civil war, and the younger warriors joined in the great ovation, and the President and the distinguished party. All along the way from the car to the platform and when he had taken his position in full view of the people, President Roosevelt bowed acknowledged to the right and left, smiling to all. When he reached the platform, cheer upon cheer went up from the thousands of pleased spectators and it was with some difficulty that Mayor Leonard at length obtained quiet.

PRESIDENT TO THE PEOPLE.

His Honor arose and spoke briefly in welcoming the Presidential party and in presenting the chief executive to the citizens of Lawrence whose guest he was to be for the next few minutes. "Fellow citizens," said the mayor, "we have here with us the chief executive of the nation who has kindly consented to make a brief stop and say a few words to us. To him, in your behalf, I extend a most hearty welcome, and now, my fellow citizens, it becomes my great honor to present to you the President of the United States."

President Roosevelt arose amid a deafening cheer and applause. He bowed to right and left and still the cheering went on. He raised his hand and began to speak, but the crowd was not to be so easily silenced, and dropping his hand and bowing his head he smiled and waited. When the ovation had ceased he delivered an address. His words were highly appreciated and the general criticism was that it was "a great speech." Frequently during his remarks there were outbursts of applause and cheers.

HIS SPEECH IN LAWRENCE.

Following is the full text of the President Roosevelt's speech delivered Tuesday at South Lawrence:

Mr. Mayor and fellow citizens:— "I have just come from Lowell. Here in Lawrence I am in another of the oldest industrial centers of this country one of the cities of modern industrialism. It is greatly to your credit that you have built up such a city of our material prosperity but you have done more than that. I am greeted here today by the members of Needham Post of the Grand Army of the Republic. (Cheers.) This is the first time of the country in which the first blood was shed in the revolutionary war that made us a nation and it was here also that the two cities of Lowell and Lawrence gave their sons to pour out their life blood for the cause of the ocean of life blood poured out from '61 to '65 to keep this nation one and great and free. And so it was characteristic of your city who have sent these men here to the great war, when a lesser war came you, my comrades, men of the 9th regiment with whom I served before Santiago in your turn sprang to the country's call when once again

there was war in the land. (Cheers and applause.)

And other comrades of yours, younger comrades of yours, men whom we know, men of the 9th Regiment, other men in the far off Philippines have after three years of unexampled toil and hardships against a cruel reckless and elusive foe, won victory for the American flag. Our people owe the greatest debt possible to you who fought in the great crisis in the great war, but there is a debt owing also to the men who so gallantly did their duty during the past three years to say that the honor of the flag which you handled to their unstained should be kept undimmed. (Applause.)

And now they have fought and their success has meant what the success of the American soldier has always meant. You triumphed and your foes and detractors said that as mighty an army as yours was meant the establishment of a despotism in this country and the minute that the war was over you went back to the plow to the factory and the farm and the office and became citizens again. (Applause.) And now in the Philippines our soldiers have fought and won. To do what? To leave the land and establish the rule of the civil authority under the American flag. And now we have brought peace to the islands. They are better off than ever before. Never in their history has each man had and now has such a good chance for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. You have brought self-governing individual freedom to the Philippines of a kind that they could have never known under an archaic tyranny of their own. Now we will govern the islands well. We will govern them primarily in their interests but in our interest also. Whether we will or not as a nation we front a great destiny. We can decide whether we will do our work badly or well but we cannot help doing it. We have got to do it somehow and I ask that all men stand shoulder to shoulder as Americans to see that we do it well."

THE PRESIDENT DEPARTS.

When the President had finished he had but another minute or two in which to get to the train, and after three cheers for the nation's chief executive had been led by Mayor Leonard, the President and mayor, together with other members of the party turned and walked to the train.

The President immediately entered the car, but upon the instant the train moved, he returned to the rear platform and stood there until out of sight, smiling and waving his hat to the cheering crowd. The booming of the four guns of the battery was at once resumed and the band played merrily. Children fell in behind the last car as it in large crowds until the constantly increasing speed of the train outdistanced them.

While the reception was in progress, not a single engine entered or left the station, thus taking a great precaution against accident.

Ten minutes after the President's arrival, the nation's chief executive had come and gone and his own people had seen him and heard him talk, and now all was over and there remained only for the people to go home. They immediately dispersed, the streets and railroad were blank with the striking militia, and in a few moments they had gone and the south station assumed its normal conditions are far as crowds are concerned.

THE PROCESSION.

At 8:45 o'clock Companies F and L, and Battery C assembled at the armory as did also the members of the honorary staff, and just before 9 o'clock all reported to Col. William H. Donovan. By this time the Spanish War Veterans had arrived. At 9 the militia and staff, headed by a platoon of police in charge of Captain John Sullivan, and the Lawrence Brass band, marched to city hall where His Honor, Mayor James F. Leonard, the Hon. Byron Truell, and the members of the city government were in waiting, all displaying the stars and stripes. The militia drew up in front of the hall as the city government marched out and fell into line. Then the members of Needham post, 39, G. A. R., who had assembled in front of Needham hall took up their position in the line. This last body was augmented by veterans from William F. Bartlett post of Andover, in command of Commander John H. Russell, and Col. William Greene post of Methuen.

The march to the station was begun about 9:15 o'clock, the body being made up in this order:

Platoon of Police,
Capt. John Sullivan.
Col. William H. Donovan and staff.
Lawrence Brass Band.
Company F, 9th Regt. M. V. M.
Captain P. A. Sands.
Company L, 8th Regt. M. V. M.
Lieutenant John Connor.
Battery C, Light Artillery, M. V. M.
Captain Charles F. Sargent.
His Honor, Mayor James F. Leonard, and the Hon. Byron Truell.
Members of City Government and city hall officials.
Needham post, 39, G. A. R., and comrades from Andover and Methuen.
Commander Melvin Beal.
Stephen J. Ryan camp, Spanish War Veterans.
Commander John T. Barrett.

The honorary staff of Col. William H. Donovan comprised Major Joseph H. Joubert, Major William L. Stedman, Major George A. Sanborn, Captain Roland H. Sherman, Captain John P. Kane, Captain Edward F. O'Sullivan, and Lieut. John T. Golden.

The route lay up Common street to south station, arriving at the station about 9:40. The members of both companies of the militia and the police who had headed the procession were then stationed at various points and along the path leading from the railroad station to the platform over which the distinguished guest and his party were to march. The crowd numbered high up into the thousands long before the party was scheduled to arrive, but the police officers, under Captain James J. O'Sullivan, and Sergeant John Keller, then exceedingly well. While all were impatient and expectant, the crowd was an orderly one and all seemed willing to do their part in carrying out the suggestion of the mayor, that everyone co-operate with the police in trying to prevent accident or anything that might tend to mar the great event.

The platform which had been erected in the center of the driveway leading from Broadway to the station was appropriately decorated with red, white, and blue bunting, and hung with ropes of red, white, and blue bunting, and inscribed on this arch was the simple greeting, "Welcome." Just where the driveway branches off Broadway was another arch, spanning the drive, and decorated with American flag, red, white, and blue bunting, laurel leaves, and flowers. The arches were erected to the right and left of the platform. Then leading from the railroad station to the platform, was a path set off with ropes of laurel leaves and adorned on either side with hemlock boughs, and potted palms, ferns, rubber plants, and flowers.

SEATED ON THE PLATFORM.

The capacity of the platform was entirely adequate for the members of the distinguished party, and the city government and hall officials. Among those from this city who occupied seats there were the Hon. James P. Leonard, the Hon. Byron Truell, Dr. M. A. Dignam, Aldermen Lane, Eaton, White, Lacallade, Choate and Parthum, and Councilmen Koerner, White, Morgan, Evans, O'Neil Campbell, Garvey, Booley, Hazar, Beedles, and Haintead, Rep. J. J. Desmond, City Clerk C. J. Corcoran, Auditor R. J. Shea, Clerk D. F. Kiley, Supt. M. F. Collins, Overseer Collins, Assessor J. D. Murphy, Abbott A. Poore, John Kimball, City Engineer A. D. Marble, Inspector Oswald Cullington, Robert Priestman, City Treasurer W. H. Russell, Edward Merrill, and a few others.

A space immediately surrounding the platform was roped off and reserved for the militia, the police, and the press. A large square in front of the platform was roped off for the Grand Army men and the boys of the Spanish-American war, then immediately behind this was another large square reserved for the children. This last was a great blessing for the little folks and it gave them plenty of room and a fine chance to see the nation's chief executive in perfect safety.

The crowd kept steadily and rapidly growing larger and denser, until as train time drew near it was one solid mass of humanity, packed very closely together, that choked up the driveway to the station. Broadway, the fields in front of the station, and in fact every available place. The windows of the few buildings within view of the station were filled with faces, spectators sat on the roofs over the station walks and the roofs of other buildings on the further side of Broadway, and the trees of the vicinity were heavily laden with small boys who sat comfortably up against the trunks or leaned far out on the branches.

The police ambulance was in readiness throughout the entire reception, but it was not needed, as the only unpleasantness in the incident line reported up to noon today, was the fainting of a woman who is said to reside in Andover.

As far as is known, everything passed off without the slightest hitch. The arrangements had been made with attention to the smallest detail, and when the party arrived there remained simply to carry out the plans, and this was truly gratifying to all who played a part in the smallest part in the reception. The crowd was enormous, but it was amply handled. Altogether, it was a red letter day in the history of the city, and the reception to President Roosevelt and party on Tuesday, August 26, will long be remembered as a most momentous, pleasant, and joyful occasion, for young and old.

INCIDENTS OF THE VISIT.

It was a cosmopolitan throng of nearly 20,000 people that greeted the chief magistrate of the nation, who was the guest of the city of Lawrence Tuesday for 15 minutes. Crowding every available space in the vicinity of the south station where a glimpse of the President could be obtained they stood and looked and listened and shouted and cheered as the spirit moved them; and through all this there was evidenced a unanimous sentiment of hearty welcome. Partisan views were manifestly forgotten and the citizens received their leader in such a way as to prove the warmth of their regard.

The crowd was not confined to Lawrence alone for Andover, Methuen and North Andover were represented by hundreds of citizens of those towns and quite a crowd from Reading came up on the Reading cars.

Half a dozen engines on a side track near the Horne machine shop attracted much attention before the President arrived. They were gallily decorated with bunting and flags and no one was present will ever forget these same engines because of their performance as the special train was leaving Lawrence. The six whistles were blown simultaneously and such a din resulted! One experienced what it means to be deaf for it was impossible for a moment to hear the shout of a person standing by your side yelling as loud as he could.

Dr. M. A. Dignam was one of Lawrence's most honored citizens today for he joined the presidential party here as a specially invited guest. Dr. Dignam is a personal friend of Secretary Cortelyou. He was assigned to the Yale car.

One of the most notable incidents of the President's visit was furnished by Fred Banan, the genial barber who was present as a member of the Lawrence Brass band. Just as the President was about to step on to the platform of the rear car, Mr. Banan accosted him with the remark: "Do you remember me, Fred Banan, who used to be your barber out in Medora, Dakota?"

"Certainly, I do," said the president. "Why, by George, I'm so glad to see you. I'm so pleased. 'Tis is almost as good as greeting a rough rider. How are you any way. How many children have you?"

"Oh, I'm all right," replied Banan. "I have six children."

"Bully for you," said the President. "I've got six myself. Bully for you. Now I'm so glad to have met you."

It was several years ago that Mr. Banan was a barber in Medora and when Roosevelt was living on a ranch out there, used to go to Medora to be shaved. Banan met him there and felt that he would be remembered if he could only get a chance to present himself.

The genial barber was equal to the task and was manifestly mightily pleased when he saw that he was recognized.

The sad part of the story of the President's visit is that due to the work of the pickpockets, who have been ranging quite a harvest all along the route, there were several Lawrence victims as reported elsewhere.

IN PINE TREE STATE.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 27.—Perfect weather continues to favor the President on his tour through New England. This morning when he arose he was fresh as usual and gave no evidences of fatigue from yesterday's severe strain. Early this morning he was taken for a drive about the city and shown the beauties of the scenery along the Kennebec and at 9:45 a. m. left for Bangor. The drive around the city occupied more than an hour and the President was given an opportunity to see nearly all the places of interest. A brief stop was made at the state house and then the drive was continued through the principal streets and to the east side of the river. Upon his arrival at the station the President held an impromptu reception and spoke briefly before the train left for Bangor.
